Huntington Award to Cécile Morrisson

On March 18 Cécile Morrisson, Directeur de recherches at the Centre d'Histoire et Civilisation de Byzance (CNRS, Collège de France) was awarded the Archer M. Huntington Medal for 1995. The citation was read by the Huntington Medal Award Committee Chairman, Mark M. Salton.

"Practicing numismatists are often forced to choose between pursuit of scholarly interests and service to the discipline in other ways. In today's recipient of the Huntington Medal we have an individual who has distinguished herself in both categories of endeavor, with no clear sacrifice of one to the other.

"It is doubtful whether anyone but a native can comprehend the French academic system, so different is it from our own, but a survey of the attainments of our recipient at least reveals the promise of her future stature. Already in 1963 she was attached to the prestigious Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique, moving through the grades until her appointment in 1991 as Directeur de recherches. She published her first article in 1966, and her doctorate was awarded in 1968 on the basis of what would become a best seller, Catalogue des monnaies byzantines de la Bibliothèque Nationale (2 vols., Paris, 1970). Alongside the Dumbarton Oaks catalogues this has become an indispensable tool for the study of Byzantine coinage, giving details of one of the world's great collections together with a view of the coinage written by a historian of the period.

"More was to come. Taking advantage of her enviable facility for languages, she provided the French speaking world with a translation of Philip Grierson's Numismatics and a translation with supplement of Tommaso Bertelè's La numismatica bizantina. She has published more technical works on the important hoard of solidi from Rougga and L'or monnayé purifications and alterations de Rome à Byzance (1985). The year 1992 was replete with examples of the range of her skills. The publication of Sceaux byzantins de la collection Henri Seyrig (in collaboration with Jean-Claude Cheynet and Werner Seibt) is a lasting example of her interest in seals, already in evidence through her regular contributions to the Dumbarton Oaks series Studies in Byzantine Sigillography and the provocatively titled La numismatique which appeared in the enormously useful series Que Sais-Je? is an elegant and concise introduction to the discipline, adding variety to a genre dominated by classicists.

"Throughout her career our recipient has demonstrated a remarkable capacity for collaborative effort whether at the scholarly or the administrative level. Her list of publications, more than 80 of which are represented in the ANS library, includes the names of no fewer than 21 joint authors of many nationalities. Sometimes these have been no more than cooperative studies, but more often they have involved the extension of pure numismatics to more scientific disciplines such as statistics or metallurgy. Her collaborators have included several of her colleagues at the Bibliothèque Nationale, where she served as Director of the Cabinet des Médailles from 1988 to 1991. Now she directs the work (as its president) of the International Numismatic Commission which has responsibility for organizing the 1997 congress in Berlin.

"There is surely more to come, and among the promised 'forthcoming works' is an inventory of 'proto-Byzantine' hoards from the Balkans and Asia Minor which will fill a long-standing need. But our award has already been more than justified, and it is our pleasure today to recognize the manifold achievements of Cécile Morrisson of Paris with the Archer M. Huntington Medal for 1995."

The presentation of the medal was followed by Morrisson's talk "Physics, Economics, and Byzantine Monetary History," which explored the symbiosis between science and numismatics. Later that evening a dinner in her honor was held at Girafe Restaurant.

Saltus Award to Alex Shagin

A large group of well-wishers came to the Society's headquarters on February 18, when Alex Shagin received the J. Sanford Saltus Award for Signal Achievement in the Art of the Medal. The celebration continued with a talk by Elvira Clain-Stefanelli, Director of the National Numismatic Collections, Smithsonian Institution, on "The Artist, Messenger of Society." Two exhibits opened at the meeting and ran through April 22, a retrospective exhibit of Shagin's work and an exhibit of the Society's definitive collection of works by Victor D. Brenner.

The program began with a brief account of the life of J. Sanford Saltus, donor and namesake of the award, by ANS Associate Curator John Kleberg, who has completed a life of the New York numismatist and philanthropist for the new American National Biography. The award was presented by sculptor Karen Worth, a former recipient of the medal and member of the Saltus Committee. In the citation, Worth noted Shagin's "amazing show of energy, inventiveness and determination" in his pursuit of the art of the medal. She concluded that the 1995 Saltus Award was being presented to him "for the strength of his modeling, the depth of his perception, and the endless creativity of his conception."

In his moving, emotional acceptance, Shagin noted that after 25 years of searching on two continents for a place and direction, he had come to realize "that medallic art is becoming for me not only a hobby or an occupation, but indeed an obsession, and I start to believe that in the future my hard work will justify the recognition given me with this award." The former engraver at the Leningrad Mint concluded, "it may sound like a story of an immigrant fulfilling his American dream, but I really found the medallic art medium very suitable for expression in the most compact and durable form of my experiences in the divided, two-sided world."

Elvira Lisa Clain-Stefanelli and Arlene P. Jacobs

Karen Worth and Alex Shagin at Saltus Medal award ceremonies

Clain-Stefanelli noted the parallels between Shagin's life and those of other artists in her survey of the relationship of medalists, and artists in general, to the social realities of their age. She began with a personal example of how the tumultuous years in the middle of this century had shaped the art around her, and then applied these observations to the art of the medal from the Renaissance to the present.

After the meeting, the audience was treated to a reception featuring caviar, smoked fish, and other Russian specialties, while they viewed the exhibits of work of Shagin and Brenner, two Eastern European Jewish artists who have made a mark on the art and numismatics of the United States. Later that evening, about forty of the participants moved downtown to the Cedar Tavern where the celebration continued into the night.

Julian Delivers Stack Lecture

The 1995 Joseph B. and Morton M. Stack Memorial Lecture at the ANS was delivered by R. W. Julian on April 22, 1995. R. W. Julian is the most distinguished researcher in the field of U.S. coinage today. The hallmark of his work is careful study of archival sources. It was Julian, for example, who discovered and published (Numismatic Scrapbook Magazine, September 1964) the letters of Albion Cox, John Harper, and Elias Boudinot, which allowed the Jefferson head cents to be securely ascribed to John Harper.

In his lecture Julian shared some of his recent research, including recent work with the Boudinot papers. Julian covered many different topics, including the question of who was responsible for the ugly "matron head" design for the cent. In his opinion, it was John Reich rather than Robert Scot. John Reich had to resign his position shortly afterwards because his eyesight had become so bad (not, as is often asserted, because Scot drove him away). One of the medals he designed for a hero of the War of 1812 had been so bad that it was practically a caricature. In 1821, by contrast, Scot was able to execute a design for the quarter eagle which was considerably better than the 1816 cent design. Reich enjoyed a high reputation not because his designs were always good, but rather because his designs were more innovative, even if they occasionally failed in their effect, while Scot's designs were more pedestrian.

Julian also discussed which Birch it was who engraved the Birch cents. Traditionally, these coins have been attributed to Bob Birch because his name has been found in the mint records. But Bob Birch was not paid for dies, but rather for medicine. This medicine was almost certainly for the horses in the mint as the government was not then in the business of providing medicine for people. Julian felt that the suggestion which Carl Carlson made, which Breen recorded in his Encyclopaedia, namely that it was William Russell Birch, may be the likeliest solution.

One person who came out with a sullied reputation from the lecture was the good doctor Benjamin Rush. Rush was a popular Philadelphia doctor, who had a good practice until his habit of bleeding people for every disease led to a substantial diminishment in the number of his patients. He then tried to get a job at the mint, but he and Elias Boudinot quarrelled bitterly, after Rush kept a relative of Boudinot's up the entire night before the relative died, and compelled the relative to change his will in Rush's favor. Boudinot sued Rush, whereupon Rush accused Boudinot of defalcations at the mint. In particular, Rush claimed that Boudinot had misappropriated the Mint's horse dung and used it for his own purposes. It is not clear whether a physical audit was ordered to confirm or deny this fact.

Julian also spent a few days working through the collection and in the library. The staff and members particularly enjoyed his many stories, from the Wild West to the Soviet Union. The staff was taught how to fan a revolver prior to shooting it. We also liked the story of the Englishman in Moscow who was convinced his room was bugged, which of course it was, and he was certain he could find the bug. He finally picked up the carpet and discovered a screw in the floor. He unscrewed it, and the chandelier in the room on the floor below fell down.

Robert Bauslaugh to Give Bullowa Address

Professor Robert A. Bauslaugh of the Department of Classics, Emory University, will deliver the David Bullowa Memorial Lecture on September 16, 1995, at 3:00 P.M. An alumnus of the Society's Graduate Seminar program, Bauslaugh has spent over ten years studying nearly 1,000 examples of a particular Macedonian silver coinage first struck ca. 90 B.C. The reverse type is Hercules' club between money chest and chair and the reverse inscription refers to Aesillas the Quaestor. Through a meticulous die study, Bauslaugh concludes that the coin type became immobilized and was struck down into the 60s B.C. This dating has broad implications for arguments made by both Margaret Thompson and Otto Mørkholm and the thorough study of the coins has greatly increased our understanding of the Roman fiscal policy of the period.

Saturday Afternoon Seminar Program

The second year of the Saturday Afternoon Seminar Program is well underway. Five seminars have been given: "The Coinage of Alexander the Great" by Carmen Arnold-Biucchi, "A New Look at Old Mints" by William E. Metcalf, "Collecting Islamic Coins" by Michael L. Bates, "The Mint of Venice in the Middle Ages" by Alan M. Stahl, and "Portraits on Ancient Greek Coins" by Carmen Arnold-Biucchi. Attendance has been excellent. Several persons have come to every seminar, taking full advantage of the opportunity to examine coins from the ANS collections and to discuss them with curators and other knowledgeable, interested participants. The Saturday Afternoon Seminars will take a summer vacation and then resume on Saturday, September 30, 1995, with "Hoards, Isolated Finds, and Shipwrecks in the Americas" by John M. Kleeberg. For further information or to register for a seminar, please contact Constance Wiesman, Education Officer, at the ANS.

Last Call for ANS Tour-Cruise

The ANS is proud to offer a unique opportunity for an odyssey starting in Mantua and continuing to Venice and then on to a seven day cruise of the Greek Islands. All members have recently received information about this most special tour, a first for the American Numismatic Society, scheduled to take place September 27 through October 8. The group will meet in Milan and journey together to Mantua where they will view the wonderful exhibit of Coins and Medals of the Gonzaga Rulers from the fifteenth to the eighteenth century. There will be 50 coins from the ANS along with coins from museums from all over the world including the Hermitage and the British Museum. The group will then journey by private motor coach to Venice stopping in Verona for a short tour. After two days in Venice with an anticipated visit to the Mint of Venice, the group will board the luxurious Costa Classica for an interesting, exciting, and educational tour of Bari (Italy) and Katakolon, Sanatorini, Mykonos, Rhodes, and Kithera (Greece).

Information on sites to be visited will be given by our guest lecturer, Professor Theodore V. Buttrey. His credentials make him a perfect choice: Professor Emeritus of Classics at the University of Michigan; President of the Royal Numismatic Society 1989-94; ANS Council Member for 21 years; Medalist of the Royal Numismatic Society; and renowned classics lecturer.

The ship, Costa Classica, has an excellent reputation and is recognized as one of the finest Italian cruise ships. The regional Italian cuisine, the ambience, and the white glove service along with gambling, spas, entertainment, a fine art gallery, and a shopping galleria will make the seven day journey a long remembered experience. In addition to the luxurious accommodations, the guests will have the unusual opportunity to participate in the lectures given by Professor Buttrey. He will speak on each site to be visited and, of course, there will be guided tours at each site.

It is hoped that many of you will be able to take advantage of this special offering and enjoy the company of people with similar interests in numismatics and the classics.

Eleven people have signed up for the trip including our President Mr. Arthur A. Houghton III and his wife. July 15 is the Day of the Etruscans

The second annual "Day of the Etruscans" took place Saturday, February 25, 1995, at the ANS. The Etruscan Foundation, with headquarters in Grosse Point Farms, MI, and the Castle Spannocchia, Italy, sponsored the day which consisted of the annual meeting and luncheon of their Board of Directors, followed by an afternoon public program. Approximately 100 people, including many ANS members and friends, joined the Board for the afternoon event. Two slide lectures were given: "Myths and Legends on Etruscan Coins" by Carmen Arnold-Biucchi, Margaret Thompson Curator of Greek Coins, and "To Hell with the Etruscans" by Professor Nancy de Grummond from Florida State University. Professor Jean-Rene Jannot from the Universite de Nantes served as respondent.

cut-off day for joining the adventure. Please contact Arlene P. Jacobs for information concerning the trip, travel arrangements, and any other questions you may have.

He began by giving a moving tribute to Massimo Pallotino who had died shortly before the date of the program.

The ANS designed two special exhibitions from our holdings to accompany the formal program, a collection of superb Etruscan coins and a selection of rare books about Etruscan numismatics. Participants enjoyed viewing the exhibitions before the program and during the lavish reception. In addition, the Education Officer, Constance Wiesman, made arrangements with the Hispanic Society of America to allow visits to their ancient collections which are normally closed to the public. A tour of the ANS Library was given by Librarian Francis Campbell, and guests had an opportunity to look at medieval coins from our collection with Curator Alan M. Stahl. For further information about bringing a group to the ANS for a special program, please contact Constance Wiesman.

Arab-Byzantine Forum at ANS

On Saturday November 18, 1995, there will be a meeting at the ANS on Arab-Byzantine coinage and all related series, including seventh century Byzantine and Byzantine derived coinages. A questionnaire has been prepared for potential participants asking them what kind of a program it should be, what each participant would like to prepare as his or her own contribution, and how long the program should be. The conference is sponsored jointly by the ANS and the Oriental Numismatic Society. Questions should be directed to Michael L. Bates at the ANS.

UNIQUE AND UNPUBLISHED COIN TO MANTUA

Among the coins which the American Numismatic Society will be lending this fall to a major international exhibition in Mantua, Italy, is one which has never been published and is believed to be unique. It is a silver half-ducato of Mantua of Duke Ferdinand Gonzaga, dated 1613. Not only is the piece unlisted in any catalogues or histories of the coinage of Mantua, its types and legends are otherwise unknown for the ruler and the mint.

The unique coin is one of 50 pieces which the Society is lending to the exhibit of coins of the Gonzagas to be held in Mantua at the Palazzo Te from September 9 through December 10, 1995. Other museums lending objects to the exhibit include the Hermitage in Saint Petersburg, the Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris, the British Museum, the Berlin and Vienna collections, as well as major Italian museums. The exhibition is being supported by the Banca Agricola of Mantua to celebrate its acquisition of the legendary Magnaguti collection of coins and medals of the Gonzaga rulers. The exhibit will open with a conference on the coins of the Gonzaga, to be chaired by Dr. Silvana Balbi de Caro, Director of the Numismatic Department of the Italian National Museum in Rome. Among the speakers at the conference will be Alan M. Stahl, ANS Curator of Medieval Coins and of Medals.

The unpublished coin was part of the bequest of Herbert Scoville, an active member and Councillor of the Society until his death in 1937. The bequest included 3,635 coins, most of them of the Italian Renaissance. The half-ducato of Ferdinand Gonzaga is lacking in the Corpus

LIBRARY NOTES

On February 25, in conjunction with the "Day of the Etruscans" conference, the librarian mounted an exhibition of eighteenth to twentieth century works from the library's collection dealing wholly or partially with Etruscan numismatics. Among the works exhibited were Joann Baptist Passeri's De nummi etruscis paestanorum (Pesara, 1748), P. Raffaele Garrucci's Le monete dell'Italia antica (Rome, 1885), and Ernst J. Haeberlin's Aes Græve; Das Schwergeld Roms und Mittelitaliens (Frankfurt am Main, 1910).

Visitors to the reading rooms have included A. K. Narain, University of Wisconsin (Retired)/University of Benares (Varanasi, India) and Osmund Boparichchi, of the Centre Nationale de Recherche Scientifique, Paris. Ben Damsky of Belmont, CA, has also made a return visit in order to continue his research on Roman coins.

Normand Pepin, a member of the Friends of the Library Committee, has served as a library volunteer on various occasions providing helpful assistance with many of our routine duties. Pablo Arroyo, Library Assistant, has begun a relabeling project which will result in new labels placed on all of our card catalogue trays and file cabinets.

From the publishers, we have received complimentary copies of the following works: Sylloge Nummorum Graecorum Hungaria, Budapest Magyar Nemzeti Múzeum, vol. 2, Dacia-Moesia Superior, edited by Miklos Bakos, and Sylloge Nummorum Nummorum Italicorum as well as older histories of the coins of Mantua. It was made while the duke was also a cardinal, a title he renounced the following year, and depicts his cardinal's hat as well as a Maltese cross, an apparent reference to his suffragan church in Rome. The reverse legend is MANVS DOMINI FECIT HEC OMNIA, "The Hand of God Made All These Things," a motto otherwise not known from coins or medals of the Gonzaga. A full description of the piece, along with the others on loan, will be in the section of the exhibit catalogue written by Stahl.

The ANS is planning a visit to the Mantua exhibit in October, as part of its trip to Italy and cruise to the Greece islands. More information on the trip, and on the exhibit, can be obtained from Arlene Jacobs at the ANS (212) 234-3130.

Graecorum Italia, Sassari, Museo Archeologico "G. A. Sanna," vol. 1, Sicilia-Numidia, edited by Francesco Guido, both from Edizione Ennerre of Milan. From Yapi Kredi, Vedat Nedim Tör Museum, Istanbul, we have received Oguz Tekin's Yapi Kredi koleksiyonu, Grek ve Roma sikkeleri, Greek and Roman coins, the Yapi Kredi collection, edited by Sennur Sentürk. Western Publishing Company has sent Handbook of Ancient Greek and Roman Coins, by Zander H. Klawns and edited by Kenneth E. Bressett.

From the authors we have received Ion Donoiu, Imparatii bizantului si monedele lor, Gale E. Hawkes, A Collection of Georgian Medals; Horst Kimpel, Traditionelle Zahlungsmittel, Frühformen des Geldes, Vorformen der Münze, Zahlungsmittel und Wertobjekte der Naturvölker, Reichumsanzeiger; Neal W. O'Connor, Aviation Awards of Imperial Germany in World War I and the Men Who Earned Them, vol. 4, The Aviation Awards of the Kingdom of Württemberg; Maximino Turiel Ibáñez, Antiqua Civitas Deserta, El 'loca sacra libera' de El Castillejo de Lechago; Hallazgos monetarios de época ibérica y roman en Cerro Redondo y Meco, Madrid and Inventario de hallazgos monetarios poyo anteriores y posteriores a Octavio Augusto y otros estudios arqueológicos; Frances Van Keuren, The Coinage of Heraclea Lucaniae; Robert "Frogfoot" Weller, Galleon Hunt; Douglas Winter and Lawrence E. Cutler, Gold Coins of the Old West, the Carson City Mint 1870-1893, a Numismatic History and Analysis.

In addition to the accessions noted above, the library received a fine selection of auction catalogues and works on ancient Greek coins from ANS Council member, John D. Leggett. Krause Publications of Iola, WI, has donated a number of their numismatic publications and a selection of fixed price lists to the library. Readers who wish additional information about the above publications should address their inquiries to the Society's Librarian.

Alan Stahl Interviewed

Recently, the Monitor News Review sponsored by the Christian Science Monitor interviewed Alan M. Stahl, Curator of Medieval Coins and of Medals. The topic was "New Coin Design." This interview was aired on May 3 on WFUV (90.7) at 6:00 P.M. and on WPBS (91.3) at 4:00 P.M. on the same day. There was an OP-ED article on this subject by Stahl in the New York Times. A reprint of the article can be obtained by contacting the Society.

Lin Named Society's Assistant Librarian

In early March, Ms. Ge (Grace) Lin filled the position of Assistant Librarian, which has been open since the departure of Carlene Stober at the end of 1994. Lin, a graduate of the Library and Information Science Master's program at St. John's University, has both library and archival employment experience. She has a reading knowledge of Chinese, English, and French and speaks both Chinese and English. She also has experience in searching a variety of on-line databases.

Ms. Carlene Stober, who was the library's cataloguer for the past two years, has joined the cataloguing staff of the Mannes College of Music in New York City. We all wish Ms. Stober great success in her new position.

ANS Theater Benefit Enjoyed by All

We are extremely grateful to our Council Member, Donald Partrick, for his efforts as Chair of the most successful ANS theater benefit held on Friday, April 21. Fifty people enjoyed a very special dinner at Sardi's Restaurant. Guests included members of our Society, Dr. and Mrs. Jay M. Galst, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Edlow, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zaloom, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newman, Professor Thomas Martin and his daughter, Mr. Allen Lovejoy, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stack, Mr. Robert Julien, the Stack Lecturer, and Arlene Jacobs, the ANS Development Officer. We also had the pleasure of welcoming Mr. and Mrs. David Ingalls. Along with these members and friends from the ANS, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Partrick, hosts for the evening, attended with 30 of their friends. This made for a most interesting group of numismatists and people from many different backgrounds. It proved difficult to tear people away from conversation to sit down to dinner but, once there, everyone enjoyed a superb dinner of smoked salmon, free range chicken, special Sardi's vegetables, and two unique desserts that are special Sardi dishes. Conversation continued over dinner where this mixed group got to know each other.

The walls of this restaurant are covered with caricatures of past and present famous actors, which proved to be a perfect introduction to the play Sunset Boulevard. The restaurant offered not only great food but nostalgia at its best. The cocktail hour brought together new and old friends. The table decorations turned into wands filled with gold bullion which was a disguise for Hershey Kisses. These wands were wrapped with green ribbon saying ANS April 21, 1995, a nice memento of the evening.

A short walk to the impressive Minskoff Theatre with its soaring escalators took the group to their seats, and then Sunset Boulevard took over. The music was typical of Andrew Lloyd Webber—grand. The sets were unusual even for a Webber production—they were breathtaking, allowing for two full sets to confront the audience with two separate actions taking place at the same time. The costumes made those of the film version we all remember seem drab and boring. But, of course, the acting created the magic. Glenn Close, who will soon be leaving, was the Star and it was not possible to forget that fact. She was superb and yet she did not overshadow the rest of the cast. Although the story of the aging actress is well known and even seems a bit dated by today's standards, the play expresses the pathos of the character and the heartbreak that exists in the tinsel land of Hollywood.

The ANS would like to do a theater benefit every year in the spring and we hope that the ANS membership and friends will try to put this evening on their schedule. You will be informed in the summer Newsletter what the next offering

ANS School Program's Third Year

The third year of the successful ANS School Program came to a close the first week of June 1995. Despite government budget cuts which made it more and more difficult for teachers to take field trips, approximately 1,200 students visited the Society for one of our three free school programs: The World of Coins, The Art of the Medal, and Money in Art, Story, and Myth.

Groups included a lively, gifted fourth grade class from Hunter College Elementary School that had been studying American coinage as part of an American History unit. They came equipped with written questions and were thrilled to meet Curator John Kleeborg who made a "guest appearance" and patiently answered every single question. A sixth grade class from PS 24 Queens, had youngsters recently arrived from 16 different countries. The universal appeal of coinage made our "World of Coins" program enjoyable and understandable even as the youngsters struggled to learn English.

Although our school programs are designed for the middle school audience, all grade levels (K-12) are accommodated with programs upon request. Two classes of Latin students from John Jay High School in Westchester visited the ANS and were given a lecture by Chief Curator William E. Metcalf. For the second year in a row, the Education Officer, Constance Wiesman, has given a special program, "Careers in Numismatics" for the High School of Economics and Finance, one of several new magnet high schools in New York City.

CONSTANTINE'S DAFNE COINAGE BEING STUDIED

ANS Associate Member Robert Trudel is conducting a study of the die alignments on Constantine's Constantinopolitan coinage bearing the reverse legend CONSTANTINIANA DAFNE. He would appreciate information from other collectors about the alignment on any such coins that they have. Please send it to him at 11435 St. Julien, Apt. 5, H1H 3Y7 Montreal Nord, Qc, Canada.

will be. It is a wonderful opportunity for people with like interests to get together in an exciting environment.

COAC in October 1995

The 1995 Coinage of the Americas Conference will be held at the ANS on October 28, 1995. This year's theme, "Coinage of the American Confederation Period" will mainly concern the states' coinage of the time. The organizer of the conference is Dr. Philip Mossman, whose book on the money of the American colonies and confederation was published by the ANS in 1993 and which provides not only a useful overview, but also an excellent bibliography to guide further research. Mossman will give a general historical introduction to the period. Richard Doty will discuss Boulton's involvement with a coinage proposal for South Carolina. Eric P. Newman has been doing some further research on the Nova Constellatio series, and will share his results. Pete Smith has agreed to give a paper on the coinage of the Independent State of Vermont. John Lorenzo will re-examine the very vexed question of the broken A letter punches on the state coinages, and their attribution to James Atlee. Charles W. Smith will discuss the surviving population of English counterfeit halfpennies. John Kleeberg has some new leads on a state copper coinage which preceded the rest, the Carolina elephant halfpennies, and will reveal his findings at the conference.

The COAC Committee invites submission of additional topics for consideration and those interested should send a summary of their proposed paper to John Kleeberg at the ANS. Those interested in contributing to the exhibit of confederation coins should also contact John Kleeberg.

Adult Group Visits

This spring, the Education Officer has received a number of inquiries from adult groups wishing to visit the ANS. She has designed different types of programs to accommodate the interests of such diverse groups as Japanese local government officials, the Massapequa Coin Club, and the Montclair Adult School. In June, college students participating in the highly selective Summer Internship Program at the Cloisters will visit the ANS and will have an introductory slide lecture given by Wiesman, a tour of the ANS Library given by Librarian Francis Campbell, and the chance to look at medieval coins from our collection with Curator Alan M. Stahl.

ANS NAMES SEMINAR STUDENTS, FELLOWSHIP WINNERS

Thirteen students have been named to participate in the 1995 Graduate Seminar, which will take place at the Society's New York City headquarters from June 13 through August 12, 1995. Each student will receive a stipend of $2,000 in support of his or her work.

The purpose of the Seminar, which has been held annually since 1952, is to familiarize students with numismatic methodology and scholarship and to provide them with a deeper understanding of the contributions made by numismatics to their own fields of study. The program includes lectures and conferences conducted by specialists in various fields, as well as presentation of a paper on a topic of the student's choice based on actual contact with the coinages related to that topic. The work of the students is supervised by American Numismatic Society Curators and by a Visiting Scholar. Outside experts also conduct discussions of specialized topics of methodological interest. This year's Visiting Scholar is Dr. François De Callatay of the Cabinet des Médailles, Bibliothèque Royale Albert 1er, Brussels.

The students admitted for summer 1995, with their affiliations and fields of interest, are: Florin Curta, Western Michigan University (Roman/Medieval); Touraj Daryaei, University of California, Los Angeles (Islamic); Laura A. De Lozier, University of Wisconsin (Roman); Rachel Koopmans, University of Notre Dame (Medieval); David Hollander, Columbia University (Roman); Andrew Kurt, University of Toronto (Medieval); Eleonora Luciano, University of Indiana (Medals); Bradley McLain, Fordham University (Medieval); Judith Nolan, New York University (Medieval); David Rohrbacher, University of Washington (Roman); Michael Smith, Brown University (Greek); Lisa Wolverton, University of Notre Dame (Medieval). Peter Franz Mittag of the University of Freiburg, Germany, a student of Roman coinage, is this year's foreign student. The Seminar was opened to foreign candidates, who receive no financial support from the Society, in 1993.

a group to the ANS for a special program, please contact the Education Officer, Constance Wiesman.

Graduate Fellowship to Knoblauch

The Society also announced that its Graduate Fellowship for 1995/6 had been awarded to Ann-Marie Knoblauch of Bryn Mawr College and the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. Knoblauch attended the 1990 Graduate Seminar. She is preparing a dissertation on representations of satyrs in ancient art, for which the coin evidence is critical. The Fellowship carries a stipend of $3,500 and is restricted to alumni of the ANS Graduate Seminar.

Roman Fellowship to McDaniel

The second ANS Fellowship in Roman Studies has been awarded to Mary Joann McDaniel of the University of North Carolina. McDaniel is completing her dissertation on the cult of Vesta, and her work has exposed the importance of the numismatic evidence which she will pursue in New York during academic 1995/6. This fellowship, established by the Council in 1993 on the basis of an anonymous benefaction, carries a stipend of $5,000.

Schwartz Fellowship to Swett

The Frances M. Schwartz Fellowship has been awarded to Kelly Swett of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Swett is an alumna of Lawrence University in Appleton, WI, where her B.A. thesis dealt with coins from the Ottilia Buerger collection. She wrote a number of entries for the recently published Bearer of Meaning, a catalogue of the collection.

WOODROW WILSON GRANTS

The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars is accepting applications for fellowships for 1996/7. Created by the Congress in 1968, the Center confers residential fellowships for research in Washington, DC, and conducts conferences on a broad range of topics. Applications are accepted from candidates of any nationality and from a wide variety of backgrounds including government, the corporate world, and the professions, as well as academe. The application deadline is October 1, 1995. Further information is available from the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, 1000 Jefferson Drive, S.W., Washington, DC, 20560, 202/357-4335.

MARTIN J. PRICE, 1939–1995

On April 28, 1995, the numismatic community lost a dear friend and a brilliant scholar, Martin Jessop Price, Director of the British School of Athens (1994–95) and former Assistant Keeper (1966–78) and Deputy Keeper (1978–94) in the Department of Coins and Medals at the British Museum. He was born in London on March 27, 1939. He pursued his education at King's School in Canterbury and Queens's College, Cambridge, where he received his M.A. in 1964 and his Ph.D. in 1967.

A scholarship from the Greek government in 1961 steered him to the country which, on the personal and on the professional level, would become the center of his love and devotion. In Athens he learned modern Greek, met Maria Zenaki whom he married in 1965, and specialized in ancient Greek coins. Before his untimely death at the age of 56 and after almost 30 years of service at the British Museum, he returned to the British School of Athens as its Director and as one of the world's leading experts on Greek coinage. His great friendliness and generosity toward all those who approached him with questions on Greek coins—colleagues as well as strangers—and his permanent availability spread his fame beyond the limited circle of specialists and the borders of his own country.

Martin Price's open-mindedness and humanitas as a person is reflected in his work. His mind was interested in everything, but his major publications deal with three essential domains of Greek coinage: its beginning, its radical transformation in the hellenistic age, and its survival under the Roman empire. Archaic Greek Silver Coinage. The Asyut Hoard (London, 1975) was written with Nancy M. Waggoner, Curator of Greek Coins at the ANS, and Greek Coins and Cities. Architecture on the Ancient Coins of Greece, Rome, and Palestine (London/Detroit, 1977), an overview of ancient architecture through Roman provincial coins, with Bluma L. Trell, Professor Emeritus of Classics at New York University. Typically, Martin built a long, lasting friendship through and beyond the book. To me, the image of these two co-authors and friends so diametrically opposed both as personalities and as scholars perhaps best spans the breadth of Martin's generosity and interests on both the human and the scholarly level.

No doubt Martin Price's most important production and heritage is his monumental The Coinage in the Name of Alexander the Great and Philip Arrhidaeus, (Swiss Numismatic Society/British Museum, Zurich/London, 1991), the fruit of a life's labor. It is a splendid catalogue, as user friendly as it could possibly be, both for the layman and the specialist, and a wonderful comprehensive treatise on one of the most complex coinages of the ancient world. This book will allow a much better understanding of the ancient economy and the changes that took place when the Greek world expanded from polis to empire. One can disagree on matters of detail and attribution, even on more crucial issues like the date of the beginning of Alexander's coinage, but the work will remain a momentum aere perennius. It is probably what Martin would have wished, for it was easy to agree with him and even easier to disagree, and it did not really matter for he was famous for his own ability to readily pronounce a very authoritative judgment—only to reverse it almost immediately. What was important was the dialogue, always lively and productive. This could disarm, unnerve, or intimidate those who approached him, depending on how well they knew him. It was part of Martin's sense of humor, and I always had the feeling he was teasing. Above these idiosyncrasies, his enthusiasm and stimulating ideas will be remembered and cherished by those who had the good fortune to know him.

Martin Price also dedicated a significant portion of his time to all kinds of services to our discipline, from the publication of sylloge volumes as an author and as Secretary, then Chairman, of the British Academy Sylloge Nummorum Graecorum project, to the editing of eight volumes of Coin Hoards (1975–94), and the Survey of Numismatic Research 1978–1984 (London, 1986). He was a co-editor of volumes in honor of colleagues: Coins, Culture, and History in the Ancient World. Numismatic and

ANS at ANA Educational Forum

On Thursday, August 17, the ANS will present the afternoon program at the ANA Educational Forum, courtesy of the ANA Education Department and James Taylor, ANA Education Director. Richard G. Doty, Curator at the Smithsonian Institution, will be the Program Chairman. The program, "The Token: America's Other Money," will begin at 12:00 noon with the Society's Curator of Modern Coins, John Kleeborg, speaking on "The Theatre at New York Token." Next, ANS Council Member Eric P. Newman will speak on "The Promotion and Suppression of Hard Times Tokens." This talk will be followed by Robert D. Leonard, "A. M. (M. A.) Abrahams and His Tokens." The next speaker, George Fuld, will address "Civil War Tokens." Robert W. Hoge will speak on "Civil War

Other Studies in Honor of Bluma L. Trell, with L. Casson (Detroit, 1981), and Essays in Honour of Robert Carson and Kenneth Jenkins (London, 1993) with Andrew Burnett and Roger Bland.

Martin Price's role as teacher impressed students and collectors all over the world and he was much in demand as a lecturer everywhere. He was the initiator of two summer schools at the Institute of Classical Studies in London and from 1975 to 1994 taught a seminar in Greek numismatics at London University. His more general books attest to his educational skills—Coins of the Macedonians (1974) and Coins and the Bible (1975) and, with Ian A. Carradice, Coinage in the Greek World (1988).

Martin Price's ties with the ANS go back to 1966 when he became an Associate Member. In 1974 he was the Visiting Scholar at the Graduate Seminar in Numismatics and subsequently was elected a Corresponding Member. There started his long friendship and collaboration with Margaret Thompson, Nancy M. Waggoner, and Hyla A. Troxell. He was one of the speakers at the Symposium in memory of Nancy M. Waggoner in 1990. Sicily was never the focus of his interests but he was very helpful in my publication of the Randazzo hoard 1980. I failed to convince him, however, that the Demareteion has to be dated under Hieron.

We shall miss him greatly but we are grateful for all he has given and left us.

Tokens in the ANA Virginia Culver Memorial Exhibition." At 2:30 P.M. Wayne K. Homren will speak on "John Gault and J. C. Ayer: Encased Postage Maker and His Largest Client." At 3:00 P.M. Russell Rulau will speak on "An Overview of U.S. Tokens, 1700-1900." The program will end with Richard G. Doty's talk on "The Token: America's Other Money—Summary Remarks."

The ANA Convention is always a big success and many numismatists from all over the world attend this conference. We expect that many of you will want to participate in this program, "The Token: America's Other Money."

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED AT ANA CONVENTION

The ANS will have an Information Booth at the annual convention of the American Numismatic Association in Anaheim from August 16 through August 20. This popular convention will take place at a very popular tourist city, Anaheim, the home of Disney Land. ANS members who plan to attend this convention are urged to volunteer an hour or two of their time to staff the ANS table and greet visitors.

Please write or call Arlene Jacobs at the ANS for a time slot. She will be at the convention coordinating ANS booth activities and looks forward to this opportunity to meet members, encourage new members, and exchange ideas with the people who stop by the booth.

Annual Giving

The 1995 Annual Giving Campaign is going well and again we are beyond the halfway mark with over $62,000 received by April 30, 1995. This is an improvement over last year. Our goal is $100,000 for the year which ends September 30, 1995. You are, of course, aware that these funds provide the vital support for the core functions of the ANS.

It must be remembered that Annual Giving is central to the Society's fund-raising efforts since dues now cover only a fraction of our operating expenses. The outreach programs, so important to introducing more and more individuals to the value of numismatics and the treasures of the Society, are made possible by your generous gifts.

Council Elects New Fellows

At its April 22, 1995, meeting, the Council of the ANS elected five new Fellows bringing the number of voting members of the Society to 197.

Robert Darley-Doran of Avington Park, England, has been an Associate since 1974. Doran is a former USAID official who left the service in the 1970s. He and his wife Elisabeth now serve as Islamic numismatic consultants to the trade as well as regularly cataloguing collections for British auction houses. He also advises private clients on arranging, cataloguing, and publishing their collections and has served as a consultant for the establishment of numismatic museums—for the Saudis in Riyadh, for the Qataris in Doha, and for the Omanis in Muscat. His bibliography includes a number of important and frequently consulted works on Islamic numismatics, including "The Art of Islamic Coinage," in Treasures of Islam (London, 1985), with Michael L. Bates; History of Currency in the Sultanate of Oman (Muscat and London, 1990); and The Coinage of Islam: Collection of William Kazan (Beirut, 1983).

Charles R. Hoskins of Philadelphia has been involved in numismatics since the 1950s when he served as Curator of the Money Museum of the National Bank of Detroit. He then worked for the U.S. Mint on authentication and anti-counterfeiting assignments. He left the Mint to establish the ANA Authentication Bureau and now heads the International Numismatic Society in Washington, DC, an independent authentication service. An ANS Associate since 1960, Hoskins has produced numerous publications, including frequent contributions to collector magazines on questions of authentication. He participated in the Society's 1989 COAC, speaking on the counterfeiting of modern U.S. gold coins in the Mideast.

Jeffrey P. Mass, an Associate since 1986, divides his time as Professor of Japanese History at Stanford University and Senior Associate at St. Antony's College, Oxford. His area of numismatic collecting and research is medieval England, especially the short cross and long cross series. He serves on the ANS Committee for Medieval and Early Modern Coins. His most recent numismatic publication is "Of Dies, Design Changes and Square Lettering in the Opening Phase of the Short Cross Coinage," British Numismatic Journal 63 (1993).

Dr. Ralph R. Sonnenschein of Malibu, CA, has been a member of the ANS since 1985. Now Professor Emeritus of Cardiovascular Physiology at UCLA, Sonnenschein has built a collection of over 1,500 medical medals which he has arranged to donate to the ANS by bequest. An article about him, as the latest member of the Society's Millennium Club, appeared in the winter 1995 issue of the ANS Newsletter. He has also donated various European and American medals on assorted topics and arranged further medallic donations by associates of his in Europe.

Barry D. Tayman, an ANS Associate since 1975, lives in Columbia, MD. An attorney, he works in the office of the Judge Advocate General at Fort Meade, MD. His collecting interests are chiefly tokens including Canadian, medals, and early American, particularly the Machins Mills counterfeits. He has participated in two COACs—in 1987 he discussed the Montreal "Happy While United" Indian Peace Medal and in 1992 he and Frank Katan wrote on the Magdalen Island token.

The ANS welcomes these five dedicated members as Fellows of the Society, a class of membership limited in number to 200.

ANS Circles

Our Circle program is also doing very well. We have a goal of $20,000 for the year and by April 30 the ANS had realized $19,000. This figure has put us ahead of last year at this time and we thank all of you who have chosen the Circles as a way to express your appreciation. The new "Electrum Circle" is off to a good start with a total of $2,760 received from February through April of this year. Perhaps many of you will find this new $500 Circle a good way of giving and getting special recognition.

Making Annual Giving a part of your relationship with the Society is your way of supporting membership activities. We are here to make the resources of the Society available to you. We always welcome your comments and look forward to your letters, requests, comments, and suggestions. Do not hesitate to write or telephone the ANS and we shall try to be as responsive as possible.

New Members Elected

The Society's Council elected 24 new Associate Members and reinstated two previous Associates at its April 22, 1995 meeting. Those elected are:

Mr. Saud Bin Nohd Ali Althani, Doha, Qatar
 Mr. Richard M. Beleson, San Francisco, CA
 Mr. Arthur Blumenthal, Baldwin, NY
 Mr. Zane P. Bond, New York, NY
 Mr. Servet Celik, Patchogue, NY
 Mr. Derek B. Counts, Providence, RI
 Mr. Simon D'arcy Gaches, Amsterdam, Netherlands
 Dr. Gary M. Davidson, Johnston, PA
 Ms. Carey N. Gordon, Washington, DC
 Mr. Tim Hirsch, London, England
 Mr. Robert C. Knapp, Oakland, CA
 Mr. Daniel L. Koppersmith, Houston, TX
 Mr. Gjuro Krasnov, Zagreb, Croatia
 Dr. Melquirdes Lamelas, Miami, FL
 Mr. Chong-Cheng Lin, New York, NY
 Mr. Steven E. Malast, Staten Island, NY
 Dr. Alik Moustaka, Athens, Greece
 Mr. Scott Myers, Granbury, TX
 Mr. Peter Nulton, Providence, RI
 Mr. David Poratta, New York, NY
 Mr. Albert Quattrochi, Jr., Peekskill, NY
 Mr. Achim Schramm, New York, NY
 Mr. Joseph T. Stegmaier, Huntsville, AL
 Mr. David J. Wnuck, Meriden, CT

In addition, the following former members were reinstated as Associates:
 Dr. Kamen Dimitrov, Sofia, Bulgaria
 Mr. Walter Perschke, Chicago, IL

Associate membership in the ANS is open to all with an interest in numismatics. Members receive a range of benefits including the Society's annual journal, the American Journal of Numismatics, and are informed about forthcoming events and opportunities through receipt of the quarterly ANS Newsletter and special mailings.

New Life Members

The Society continues to promote the possibility for Associate Members to exercise the option of converting to Life Membership by a one-time payment of $1,000. At its meeting of April 22, the ANS Council recorded the following Life Associates.

Dr. Brooks Emmons Levy, Princeton, NJ (Assoc., 1968; Fellow, 1981)

Prof. Thomas R. Martin, Worcester, MA (Assoc., 1978; Fellow, 1987)
 Mr. Anthony J. Terranova, New York, NY (Assoc., 1976; Fellow, 1992)
 Eight members were recorded as Life Associates.

Mr. Gavin Awerbuch, Bay City, MI (Associate, 1994)
 Mr. Frank L. Kovacs, San Mateo, CA (Associate, 1970)
 Prof. Karl F. Morrison, Princeton, NJ (Associate, 1992)
 Mr. Sam Reed, Danville, CA (Associate, 1994)
 Mr. Fabrizio Rossini, Milan, Italy (Associate, 1984)
 Mr. Peter Scherff, Springfield, MA (Associate, 1988)
 Mr. Dilip Shah, Jabalpur, India (Associate, 1986)
 Mr. Basil Stephanis, Nea Smirni, Greece (Associate, 1990)

Life Associates and Life Fellows are excused from annual dues. The idea is beginning to generate a great deal of interest and many of our members see a Life Membership as a special value. Life membership means never having to think about renewals again.

The Millennium Club

From time to time the ANS writes about the Millennium Club and announces the names of members who notify the Society that the ANS is included in their will. You are eligible for membership in the Millennium Club by informing the Society that you have arranged for one or more of the following:

1. A gift to the American Numismatic Society in your will or revocable trust;
2. Participation in a life income arrangement for the benefit of the American Numismatic Society;
3. Creation of a charitable lead trust for the benefit of the Society;
4. Naming the Society as the beneficiary of a retirement plan or a life insurance policy;
5. A promised numismatic gift that the Society has agreed to accept.

The members of the Millennium Club are listed each year in the Annual Report. If you wish to have more information, please telephone Arlene Jacobs at the Society.

Tote Bag Offer

The offering made in the winter Newsletter—an ANS tote bag for a gift of $100—has been well received by our members. Twenty persons made a $100 contribution and received the tote bag. One of our members noted that "the bag was handsome and sturdy and worth $100!" We have a few left and would be only too happy to send you a distinctive ANS tote bag for a $100 contribution.

Circles of Gold, Silver, Electrum, and Bronze

An ever increasing number of ANS members are renewing their memberships in higher categories for 1995, taking advantage of the tiered dues structure to increase benefits and discounts while providing additional, much needed support for our organization. New this year, in response to numerous requests, is the Electrum Circle at $500. The Society expresses appreciation to the following members who have thus far joined the Gold, Silver, Electrum, and Bronze Circles for 1995.

Gold Circle ($1,000)

Mr. Saud Bin Nohd Ali Althani, Doha, Qatar
 Dr. Lawrence E. Cutler, New York, NY
 Mr. Jonathan K. Kern, Lexington, KY
